Gold Jewelry Trends For Summer

Yellow Gold The Season's Favorite. This summer, you'll see more and more high-fashion jewelry made of sunny yellow gold. Designers and consumers alike are turning to this up-and-coming trend which includes a wide range of looks hosting finishes of bright mirror polishes to soft satiny glows.

Long, Layered Necklaces. Ultra long necklaces made of yellow gold beads interspersed with gold chain and colored gemstones accent the long lines of this season's newest clothing fashions. When worn in glittering layers with oversized gold medallions, pendants, or several large charms, they bring to life outfits of any color.

Stackable Bangles And Cuff Bracelets. Stacked and layered gold bangles and wide cuff bracelets are everywhere this season. Popular gold bangle styles are being set with diamonds, pearls, and colored gems such as pink, blue, and yellow sapphires. Many cuff bracelets reflect art deco designs with sharp lines and geometric shapes.

Long, Linear Earrings. These sleek, elongated shapes are one of the most popular trends for 2005. Streamlined swingers range from sexy stilettos to eye-catching drop silhouettes. They also offer an added touch of excitement when set with various brightly colored gemstones such as pink, blue, red, orange, and delectable shades of green which is destined to be the next big thing.

Light, Airy Designs. Elegant, breathable, openwork yellow gold jewelry is a strong trend this season. It's perfect for wear during the warm months of summer. Gleaming gold filigree pendants, earrings, and bracelets add a delightful lightness, drama, and comfort to today's freshest new designs.
